POETRY.

Building Upon the Sand.

'Tis well to woo, 'tis well to wed,
For so the world has done
Since myrtles grew and roses blew,
And morning brought the sun;
But have a care ye young and fair—
Be sure ye pledge with truth;
Be certain that your love will wear
Beyond the days of youth—
For if ye give not heart for heart,
As well as hand for hand,
You'll find you've played the unwise part
And built upon the sand.

'Tis well to save, 'tis well to have
A goodly store of gold,
And hold enough of shining stuff,
For charity is cold;
But place not all your hopes and trust
In what the deep mine brings;
We cannot live on yellow dust
Unmixed with purer things;
And he who piles up wealth alone,
Will often have to stand
Beside his coffer-chest and own
'Tis built upon the sand.

'Tis good to speak in kindly tone,
And soothe whate'er you can;
For speech should bind the human mind,
And love link man to man.
But stay not at the gentle words,
Let deeds with language dwell—
The one who pities straying birds
Should scatter crumbs as well.
The mercy that is warm and true,
Must lend a helping hand,
For those who talk, yet fail to do,
But build upon the sand.

Louis Napoleon.

The present Emperor of France was born in the palace of the Tuileries in Paris, the 20th of April, 1808. Josephine, his youthful grandmother, was present with her daughter Hortense, the mother of the babe, on the occasion. The young prince became a great favorite of Josephine, and, in her letters, she frequently alludes to his repartees and his development of amiability and of talent. Upon the fall of Napoleon, and the restoration of the Bourbons, the Bonapartes were all exiled from France. Hortense, in possession of an ample fortune, retired to a castle in Switzerland, with Louis Napoleon and another son, then her only children. She was a beautiful, highly accomplished and brilliant woman, universally admired. Distinguished guests, from all parts of Europe, enjoyed the elegant hospitality of her castle; and her two sons received all the advantages of education which wealth could confer.

The youth of Louis Napoleon was thus passed, with his brother, in the retirement of the valleys of Switzerland, with daily devotion to thorough study, and in habitual intercourse with the most polished European society. They took occasional journeys with their mother, and wherever they appeared, their rank and the antecedents of their family rendered them conspicuous. The natural tastes of Louis Napoleon, and the anticipation of the career which might open before him, led him to devote himself principally to studies scientific and military, and to historical reading. In all these branches he became an accomplished scholar.

As youth passed into early manhood, both of the young men chafed in view of their lives of inglorious inaction. In 1831 their were revolutionary movements in Italy, and the popular party made efforts to throw off the yoke of Austrian domination. Eagerly the two young princes rushed to the banner of equal rights for all, beneath which their uncle, the great Napoleon, had marched to such signal victories. Curiously, Napoleon was both their uncle and grandfather. He was the brother of their father and the husband of their grandmother.

The Italian insurrection was unsuccessful. The disciplined legions of Austria dispersed the patriots, after a few bloody battles, shooting down mercilessly the fugitives, and hanging the captives. The brother of Louis Napoleon, exhausted by the fatigues of the field, and chagrined by discomfiture, sickened and died in his brother's arms. Louis Napoleon was crushed by wo, and was lying dangerously sick on his cot, nearly surrounded by the enemy, anticipating speedy death, and almost hoping for it, when his heroic mother, frantic with anguish, appeared, and, with the utmost difficulty, succeeded in extricating him from the midst of the exasperated Austrian army.

Fearing that she could no longer be safe on the continent of Europe, the Bourbons of France and the Hapsburgs of Germany watching her with envenomed glance, she, a heartstricken woman, with her sorrowing son, sought refuge in England. After a few years residence there, as matters became quiet on the continent, she returned to her beautiful and secluded home in Switzerland. For five years Louis Napoleon; a thoughtful, pensive young man, alone with his mother, devoted himself to untiring study in the retirement of their Swiss castle, and yet fretting at the obscurity in which his years were gliding away. Though a modest and unassuming man, he was conscious that God had endowed him with abilities capable of coping with the most august affairs. He deemed himself, and was so regarded by others, the legal heir of that empire which the popular vote of France had conferred upon Napoleon. To beguile the weary hours, he wrote several books upon scientific and military affairs, which gave him reputation.

In 1837, he visited the baths of Baden. There he learned from many French gentlemen, that France, weary of the aristocratic sway of the Bourbons, would rise almost as one man to welcome the restoration of the republican empire. A plan was formed to enter France by Strasburg, rally the troops there by the talismanic name of Napoleon, and march upon Paris. "There is but one step from the sublime to the ridiculous." The plan was sublime. It came very near the most triumphant success. A few untoward circumstances caused it to fail, and it became ridiculous. He was taken prisoner. Louis Philippe generously spared his life, and sent him, by a French frigate, an exile to New York. While in New York he conducted himself in a manner worthy of his character and his illustrious rank. He was a quiet, unobtrusive, gentlemanly man, of pensive temperament, retiring in his tastes, and seeking only the society of a few congenial friends. The stories to the contrary which have been so widely circulated are gross slanders, utterly devoid of foundation.

In June, 1837, he left New York to hasten to Switzerland, to see his revered mother, who was then on her dying bed. The letters which passed between this mother and son, are highly honorable to them both, developing the most tender affection and the purest moral feelings. He found his mother barely alive, and for a few weeks nursed her with the most loving care, until he closed her eyes in death. In extreme dejection, he remained a few months in his desolated home. The French government, jealous of his presence so near, ordered the Swiss to send him out of their domains. Again he repaired to England. His income was ample, his associations with men of the highest rank, but a life of disappointment had become almost a burden.

For two years he remained in London. At this time he published his celebrated book, "Napoleonic Ideas." He invariably rose at 6 and remained in his study till 12 o'clock. He then breakfasted and read the morning papers, taking notes of all that interested him. At 2 o'clock he received visitors; at 4, rode out on horseback or in his carriage; at 7, dined. The evenings were devoted to the social and intellectual entertainments of the metropolis.

In 1840 the remains of Napoleon were brought from St. Helena. France was in such a state of enthusiasm as no nation ever exhibited before. Louis Napoleon again made an attempt, at Boulogne, to reestablish the empire. He failed, was taken prisoner, and consigned to the castle at Ham for life. Here he remained in dreary captivity for six years. In May, 1846, he escaped in the garb of a workman and regained London. There he resided until February, 1848, when there was a new revolution in France, and Louis Philippe was driven from the throne. The hearts of the people demanded the empire. Louis Napoleon crossed to France, and was immediately elected to the National Assembly by the constituency of Paris. Then five millions of votes constituted him President of the French Republic. And then, when a formidable conspiracy was about to crush the Republic, and reinstate the old aristocratic despotism, Louis Napoleon by his renowned coup d'etat, rescued France from that doom, and the nation rewarded him for the deed by reestablishing the empire and placing the imperial crown upon his brow. With consummate ability he has maintained his position against aristocrats on the one side and Jacobins on the other, and is at the present moment the most powerful monarch upon the globe.—Abbott.

Somebody in My Bed.

Few of our readers, perhaps, have ever been placed in the situation in which our doctor once found himself. The following is his story:

"I believe, Captain," said the doctor, "I never told you about my adventure with a woman at my boarding house, when I was attending the lectures?"

"No; let's have it," replied the individual addressed—a short, flabby, fat man of about fifty, with a highly nervous temperament and a very red face.

"At the time I attended the lectures, I boarded at a house at which there were no females, but the landlady and an old colored cook."

Here the doctor made a slight pause, and the Captain, by way of requesting to go on, said:

"Well."

"I often felt the want of female society to soften the severe labor of study, and to dispel the ennui to which I was subject."

"Well," said the Captain.

"But as I feared forming acquaintances among the ladies might interfere with my studies I avoided them all."

"Well," said the Captain.

"I went into the hall, took a large lamp and went directly to my room, it being after midnight."

"Well."

"I placed the light upon my table, and commenced undressing. I had got my coat off when my attention was attracted to a dress and a quantity of petticoats lying on the chair."

"Well," said the captain, who began to show signs that he was deeply interested.

"A pair of beautiful small shoes and stockings were on the floor. Of course I thought strange, and was about to retire, but then it was my room, and I had, at least, a right to know who was in my bed."

"Exactly so," nodded the Captain—

"Well."

"So I took the light, went softly to the bed, and with a trembling hand drew aside the curtain. Heavens! what a sight! A young girl, I should say an angel, was in there asleep."

"Well," said the Captain, hitching up his chair.

"As I gazed upon her, I thought that I never witnessed anything more lovely. From underneath a night cap, rivaling the snow in whiteness, fell a stray ringlet over a neck and shoulders of alabaster."

"Well," said the excited Captain, giving his chair another hitch.

"Never did I look upon a bust more perfectly formed. I took hold of the coverlid and gently pulled it down."

"Well," said the Captain, betraying the utmost excitement.

"To the waist."

"Well," said the Captain, dropping the paper and renewing the position of his legs.

"She had on a light dress buttoned up before, but softly I unbuttoned the two first buttons—"

"Well," said the Captain, hitching his chair right and left, and squirting his tobacco juice against the stove making it fizz.

"I thought I was taking a mean advantage of her, and taking my coat and boots, went and slept in another room!"

"It's a lie!" shouted the excited Captain, jumping up and kicking over his chair—"IT'S A LIE!"

A YOUNG gentleman became smitten, the natural way, by the beauty of a youthful maiden, and honorably proposed marriage to her. The feminine said she was willing, but that her beloved parents were seriously of the opinion that she was "too young to marry yet," and therefore had most decided objections to her entering into matrimonial speculations at present. The swain said that such obstacles as enraged parents might be overcome by a gentle elopement, and requested to know if she would clandestinely leave the parental roof with him. Her reply was characteristic; she said, "Yes, or any other man!"

Soliloquy of an Old Maid.

O dear Suz! here I am alone, and such a dreary night, too, and alone I am like to be all my life. I wonder why in all nature some of the men don't 'shine up' to me, as they do to other young misses? It can't be 'cause I'm so old, or 'cause they think I'm so old; what if I am over forty-two, I look so young, and tell them I'm only twenty-two, and sure I don't look no older than that. Why, laws a massy, there's Sally Belch says she is twenty-five, and I know I look a good deal younger than she does; but then she says she don't paint; well, what if she don't, nobody knows that I paint, neither. Now, Sal's got her beaux, and I hain't got none, nor ain't like to have one—think I'd refuse, or act kinder shrink? Oh, indeed, I guess I wouldn't. Wouldn't I talk the love matters up to him? Well, if I didn't my name hain't Bets Dutton, that's all. Oh, I wish I had one who would come along and pop the question. I don't care who, so it's a man. Think you'd catch Bets saying no? Humph! I guess you wouldn't. Now I have ter fetch my own water, and only for myself; now, if I only had a nice little man to fetch water, I wouldn't care—you wouldn't catch me grumbling about it even if I did have ter fetch more. Oh, it would be so nice! I do wonder if some of the fellers won't ask me before long. If anybody should, I suppose it would be some lazy, shiftless hack of a thing, and do you think I would take him? let him try if he dare; wouldn't such a one be better than none? Well, it just would, a good deal better, too. Couldn't I fetch him into the traces, and make him pull true? If I couldn't who could? If he didn't toe the mark I guess Bets would let him know who's boss. There's no sense in having a man do as he's a mind to, I know—not unless he's a mind to do right. But the duce of it is to get a man, though. Oh, how I wish I had about twenty-five thousand dollars now, wouldn't the fellows be flocking around me some? They'd never inquire as they do now, "Why, ain't she more than twenty-two?" I do wish some old rich feller would die and leave me twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars. Then everybody—I mean the men—when they see me, would bow and say, good morning, Miss Dutton, or good evening, Miss Dutton; but now every one I see it's how are you, Bets? or, how are you, Betty? and some are so plaguey proud they can't even look at me. Well, if I had lots of money I guess I wouldn't look at them. I don't see how every other gal but me is so lucky as to get married, when some hain't tried half so hard as I have—still they've got a man, and I hain't got none yet, nor hain't like to have soon, neither. Now, there's that Jim Crane—you'd better believe I'd like to get him if I could, if it wan't for his awful homely name; but let's see—Crane—Crane—Mrs. James Crane—well, I don't know, after all, as the name is so very bad; the fact is, the name is not half so much as the man—so I'm sure I'd take him, for he's got the dimès; but then I don't care for that, if I could only get him. Oh, dear me! I'm afraid I'll not get him or anybody else. Gracious me, here it's ten o'clock and I'm all alone. Plage on the old bachelors; if I was a man, I'll bet I'd be anything but a miserable old bach, I would.

A PETRIFIED MAN.—According to the Territorial Enterprise a petrified man was found some time ago in the mountains south of Gravelly Ford. Every limb and feature of the stony mummy was perfect, not even excepting the left leg, which had evidently been a wooden one during the lifetime of the owner, which lifetime, by the way, came to close about a century ago, in the opinion of a savor who examined the defunct.

Petrifications are quite common in some of the small, but clear and beautiful streams, coursing through the mountains east of Salt Lake. Everything that falls into their crystal waters, is turned into stone, and you find in their magical depths or along their wierd-like shores, such relics of the past as fill you with wonder, not at the relics themselves—for they are those of birds, beasts, and objects animate or inanimate, which are common to the view—but at the strange power and the singular motive of nature in thus arresting the process of decay and transforming into shapes, indestructible by the elements, thing which chance merely has thrown in the way. It would seem as though the Genius of the enchanted realm were a sworn foe to the decree of "dust to dust," and cared not upon what form or thing he exercised the weird power with which he was commissioned. Whatever death or chance gives to him he preserves. It must not wholly perish. It is his for eternity.

SIX thousand wagons have crossed the Missouri river this year, bound to California, Oregon and, Washington Territory.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER. 25, 1862.

Declaration of Homestead.

Persons wishing to procure a correct legal form for making out a Declaration of Homestead, as required by the Act of the last Legislature, with the acknowledgement attached thereto, will find printed blanks, on application to the KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS Office. By filling out these blanks themselves, parties will be subject to no other expense than the fees for acknowledgement and record.

FIFTY DOLLARS.—A reward of fifty dollars will be given by Messrs. Clarke & Steart for the delivery of a horse stolen from them. See advertisement in another column.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—Rev. Jas. E. Barnes will commence a protracted meeting at the Presbyterian church, one and a half miles from Cacheville, on Saturday 7 P. M., October 25th. All are invited to attend.

TO THE TRAVELING PUBLIC.—We would call the attention of all those arriving at Sacramento, to call at Winters & Wiseman's, K street, Sacramento, where will be found good accommodations for Baths and shaving at reduced prices. See advertisement.

THE American Stock Journal, California edition for September, has been laid upon our table. The title of this work should be considered sufficient commendation. No stock-raiser should be without it, if he desires success—and who does not?—in raising and treating horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, &c., &c. Price $1.50 per annum. J. Q. A. Warren, Sacramento, publisher's agent.

We have been favored by the publisher with No. 1 Vol. 1 of the California Law Journal and Literary Review, a weekly publication devoted to Law and Science, Education and the Arts, by Wm. H. R. Wood, San Francisco. This is a work published in pamphlet form for $10 per annum, and to the profession, it seems to us, must be invaluable, and ought to be sustained. In fact, from a very imperfect examination, the matter seems sufficiently varied to commend itself to the reading public.

The late census return of manufacturing establishments in New York city reveal the fact that more capital is employed in carrying on the printing trade than any other business, the amount being over $85,000,000. Over 6,000 persons are employed in printing, and the various establishments use up about $5,000,000 worth of raw material, ink, paper, etc., per annum, producing over $11,000,000 worth of books, papers, etc.

The largest cannon in England is one manufactured at the Mersey Steel Works, Liverpool. It has a bore of 13 inches diameter, and it weighs two tons, exclusive of the carriage. It throws a solid shot of 270 lbs.

The rates of passage by the Nacragua route are announced as follows: First cabin $200, second $150, steerage $90; but will be lowered if the Pacific Mail Co. reduce theirs. There is likely to be competition in prices.

Two scientific gentlemen made an ascent in a balloon from Birmingham, England, last month, and attained the height of four and a half miles, the greatest height ever yet attained by any aerial navigator.

A MEETING was called, to be held in Los Angeles on Sunday last, to take proper steps in regard to the working of the Federal tax, as far as the same concerns the manufacture of native wines and brandies.

ONE Lewis Ballard, recently confined in Fort Lafayette, has made oath that he knows of an extensive conspiracy having been organized in the Northwestern States to join the South.

It is said that Miss Adah Isaacs Menken, who claimed to be the wife of the Benicia Boy, has been married to R. H. Newell, "Orpheus C. Keer," of the New York Sunday Mercury.

GEN. FREMONT has made an affidavit that, with the exception of certain claims on the Mariposa mines, he owns no property. From the California law reports we are half inclined to the opinion that he may soon strike out the exception.

The father of Col. Lander and his sister the sculptor, has just died at Salem, Mass., aged 70.

THE Catholics of Suisun are about to erect a church.

THIS number closes the Sixth Volume of the KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS. We have now published the paper three years without omitting a single issue; and we feel to congratulate ourselves that our labors for the growth and material prosperity of this place and the surrounding country, has not been altogether in vain. We have endeavored to build up, not to destroy; we have lent our support to every public and private enterprise calculated to enhance the interest of our people, or in anywise promote general prosperity. If we have animadverted upon the conduct of public functionaries, it was when a sense of duty to the public seemed to demand it; if we have favored a particular measure, it was for like reasons; and so far as we have lent our aid to party, in a political sense, we have done so from patriotic motives, honestly believing that the views entertained, and to which we gave expression, were those best calculated to advance the interest, peace, and prosperity of the whole country.

The KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS has been free from the control of party or faction—and will remain so so long as we own the paper—and while we invite discussion upon any and all subjects of public interest, we claim that we have a right in common with every other American citizen, to give expression to our views of National and State policy; and in exercising that right, we feel that we do not prejudice the local interest of those with whom our own personal interest is identified.

We feel ourselves under lasting obligations to friends who have so freely accorded to us support and patronage in sustaining the publication of a newspaper in this place; and to those who have always stood ready to crush us whenever it could be done without the expenditure of money, we have only to say: lay aside your weapons of opposition to us, they will in the future, as they have in the past, prove futile.

THE GAIN.—At present, Ohio has 8 Democrats in the House of Representatives, Indiana 4 and Pennsylvania 7. In the late election, Ohio chose 14 Democratic members, Indiana 5 and Pennsylvania 8, being a gain of eight members. The vote of Ohio in 1860 was—Lincoln 231,610, Douglas 187,232, Breckinridge 11,495; of Indiana—Lincoln 139,033, Douglas 11,509, Breckinridge 12,295; of Pennsylvania—Lincoln 268,030, Douglas 16,755, Breckinridge (fusion) 178,871.

HAS ESCAPED.—The rebel General Bragg has escaped from Kentucky. A masterly and successful retreat is equal to a victory. Bragg has eluded Buell and entered Tennessee through the Cumberland mountains, with all his train and with provisions for a Winter campaign. The rebels marched into Kentucky unmolested; they remained there for weeks, and then marched back safely, although a Union Army under Gen. Buell has been reported in hot pursuit. The invasion of Kentucky and the escape of the rebels with their booty, constitute one of the most disgraceful chapters of the war. Buell permitted them to pass his lines and get into the State—he has suffered them to retreat safely out of it without so much as having been attacked in a single instance. The Federal Generals, by their lack, energy and activity, are doing more for the rebel cause than they are doing for themselves.—Union.

UNDERGROUND railroads to the extent of several miles are now completed beneath the streets of London, and the whole system as designed will be opened for travel on the 1st of October. The locomotives used condense their steam and smoke, and both tunnel and cars are lighted by gas. Trains are to run every 10 minutes, and the fares are to be lower than those of the omnibusses. In the second class cars the fare will be one cent a mile, and a morning and evening train will be run at half a cent. The French prints announce the immediate commencement of a similar system of subterranean railways for the city of Paris.

NOT SIGNED.—We saw, to-day, in possession of Wells, Fargo & Co., a five dollar tender note not signed. It is strange how this note could have been issued without the usual signatures. An examination shows that these notes are signed by machinery—that one party puts on the number, another the red balance key, and still another adds the signatures, but this one got through their hands minus the latter impression. It came from the Navy Agent at San Francisco. It is the first one of the kind yet noticed. Bee.

RAIN.—A dispatch has been received from Los Angeles, which states that four inches of rain have fallen there during the twenty-four hours ending at noon, October 20th, and did much damage to the grape crop.

The subscriptions of Oregon to the Sanitary Commission Fund amount to nearly $12,000.

On Roads.

The wet season is approaching, and the necessity of one or more good roads from Knight's Landing, besides the one we already have, is a matter that should claim the attention of all our citizens, and a concert of action adopted that would insure us this much needed means of communication to our growing town. A trip through the lane we now have to travel to get out of town, and the only one not fenced up leading from here, would be sufficient to convince the most credulous of our citizens that a move in the direction of some new and good roads is not only needed, but demanded. We must have better thoroughfares for the people to pass over to come to our town than we now have, or we will loose in reputation, trade, and every other essential that tends to our growth. The bridge on the Lower Crossing of Cache creek is far advanced towards completion; the piers are up, and the structure is being put across the stream, and will soon be completed, and yet no steps are taken to secure a road to it on either side of the creek. We can get there, to be sure, but only by opening about half a dozen gates, and traveling through farms, which as soon as the rains comes will be closed up for farming purposes, and all travel shut out. It is frequently said, what is everybody's business is nobody's business, and this hold true with us in regard to roads. We would suggest to our business men if they cannot attend to this matter themselves, it would be a good investment to employ some suitable person to get up the petitions, circulate them, go through with the routine required by law, and have this road matter under way before winter sets in. The amount each would have to pay such a person would not be much, and we feel satisfied the investment would in the long run be a paying one.

One thing is patent; if we do not do something in this direction before long, we will have to go through another year as we have the past, and have a town, a village, which we think is something—a place that exports more grain than any town inferior to Sacramento in the State, and does the most business of any in the county—the town we say will be like every farmer's cow pen—fenced in, and to get to it, we must either let down a pair of a bars or open gates.

THE GOLD QUESTION.—The Commercial says:

As the imports under the new tariff average nearly four per cent. on all dutiable merchandise, a moderate weekly import of $2,000,000 or $4,000,000 yields from $1,200,000 to $1,500,000 each week, while the average weekly interest upon the public debt of the United States, to which this revenue is specifically appropriated, is less than $500,000 per week. The belief obtains at the Treasury Department that Gold will be reached through the Custom House for the payment of the public interest by the 1st of February next, and that after that the receipts will come in two or three fold greater than the current interest payments of 1863. Meanwhile the intervening installments required to be paid in gold, say $5,500,000 or $6,000,000, will be readily borrowed, either at bank direct or from parties having special deposits of gold in banks, on which they are now receiving no interest; such loans to the treasury to be paid next spring in gold. The Secretary, therefore, will not come into the market at any time as a buyer of gold for the payment of public interest; nor will he attempt, by purchase or other negotiation, to diminish the old United States notes receivable for customs, leaving the process of absorption as it now works.

PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The Sacramento Union says:

The Secretary of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, Mark Hopkins, gives notice that books will be opened for subscriptions to the Stock of the Company, to the amount of $3,000,000, in this city on the 22d, and in San Francisco on the 28th inst. It is now certain that this road will start from this city, a portion of the new levee being used for that purpose, and that the first 50 miles of it will be placed under contract in a few months, probably before the winter fairly sets in. The immense trade and travel of Nevada Territory alone affords a strong inducement for the early commencement of the work. With the magnificent support which Government gives to the road it cannot fail to be profitable stock. Especially will its construction from this city to the summit advance the interests of Sacramento.

The employees of the California Steam Navigation Company have given $559.75 to the Sanitary Fund, and have subscribed $323.75 per month in addition.

ACCORDING to the Virginia City Enterprise, Gold Hill is now turning out considerably more than $100,000 a week in bullion.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of Oct. 22d:

FR. MONROE, Oct. 19.—The Petersburg Express of October 15th fears there will be much trouble and vast suffering from the scarcity of coal.

The Richmond Dispatch of Oct. 16th says: We infer that the Federals will soon make a desperate effort to force iron clad vessels up the James river past Drury's Bluff.

In its account of the Perryville fight, the Dispatch says it is one Kentucky will mourn for many years. The Federal loss was heavy. The rebel forces fell back 6 miles.

The Examiner of October 17th says the Charleston, S. C. people have had a celebration over the completion of the marine ram, or ladies' gunboat.

The same paper says: "The Congress failed to make any enactments about martial law. It follows that it has no longer any existence in the Confederacy, and any attempt to continue martial law in any form is in derogation of the law making power of the Government, and in defiance of the Constitution."

The Examiner claims a victory at Perryville, Ky., and says the Federal loss, in killed, wounded and captured, was 20,000; the Confederates loss 5,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A special dispatch from Fairfax, Oct. 20th, says: On the return of Gen. Stahl's expedition a small party was sent toward Bristow Station, as it was understood that the enemy were there. The Federal troops were met and attacked near Catlett's Station by about twice their number, whom they engaged at close quarters, and succeeded in checking any further rebel advance. The party returned safely.

A dispatch dated Boliver Heights, Oct. 20th, says that the rebels who followed Gen. Humphreys back to the river have their pickets again extended to the Potomac. There is occasional picket firing across the river. The roads of the section are hard, dry, and in superb condition for marching. The heavy rains which render them muddy and difficult commence about the first of November.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Last evening's Washington Star revives the report that the rebels are evacuating Winchester. The inhabitants at Manassas Junction on Saturday were expecting the arrival of rebel cavalry.

Gen. Stahl reports to Sigel that on the 13th 3,000 rebel cavalry entered Snickersville from Winchester to protect the return of Stuart's cavalry from the Pennsylvania raid. The next day the whole body recrossed the Shenandoah on their way to rejoin the main body of Lee's army.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Herald's Washington special dispatch says the pressure for a forward movement is becoming almost general. It is urged with an earnestness that has never been equalled. The argument is used that the protraction of our inaction will ruin the country.

The Times' dispatch, giving an account of the refugee who brought the report from Culpepper county, Va., that he anticipated a slave insurrection, says the inhabitants of the counties where insubordination exist threaten to resist the Conscription Act, on the plea of self-protection to defend themselves against the negroes. It is believed that two-thirds of the slaves in Virginia have already heard of Lincoln's proclamation, and believe themselves free. The gentleman who brought the report thinks that, should the rebel army retreat from its present position, another Nat. Turner rebellion would occur in Eastern and Central Virginia.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—Gen. Schofield, with his advance, has reached Elkhorn Tavern, Ark. He sends intelligence that the enemy are making for Boston mountains. Generals Steele and Osterhaus are at Pilot Knob, advancing the enemy under McBride, who are posted in the vicinity of Pocahontas, Ark.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 19.—The rebels who seized the steamer Amelia, at Portland, were intercepted near Waynesville by Lieut. Col. Sigel, and scattered. No particulars have been received. More rebels were said to be gathering at Portland. Measures have been taken for their capture.

The rebel bands remaining in Missouri seem to be endeavoring to make their way out of the State in the shortest time practicable.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 20.—In the recent rebel raid upon Lexington, Ky., they lost 5 killed and 15 wounded, among whom was Major Morgan, John's cousin, who was shot in the neck, and will die. John Morgan went to Lawrenceburg yesterday morning, with 1,200 men. Dumont's cavalry is in close pursuit. From 50 to 100 of the rebels were captured.

At 3 o'clock this morning 300 or 400 of Morgan's men were at Cox's creek, 6 miles from Bardstown. They captured and burned a Federal train of 80 wagons, 51 of which were loaded. Morgan then went towards Bardstown and captured another Federal train—number of wagons not known—within 2 miles of the town. Thence he proceeded in the direction of Boston, southwest of Bardstown, with the supposed intention of burning the railroad bridge there. At Lawrenceburg, yesterday, Dumont was but 40 minutes behind Morgan. We have nothing from Buell or Bragg.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—A special dispatch from Cincinnati, says:

Advices from Gen. Cox, at Gallipolis,

Ohio, report that the rebels have evacuated Western Virginia and gone to Eastern Tennessee, taking with them all their trains. They are said to have manufactured 200,000 bags of salt in the Kanawha Valley. Before leaving they destroyed all the salt works and other property. Gen. Cox expected to reach Charlestown, on the Kanawha, to-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Tribune editorially says the last European advices render it morally certain that France and England will recognize the Southern Confederacy by the 1st of January, provided there be no change in the situation before that time. In the same article it says there will soon be a battle near Winchester, and argues sending every available man to reinforce McClellan.

Exchange unsettled at 143@145; Gold firm at 31@31½; Bars quiet and nominal; Seven and three-tenth Treasury Notes, 105½.

CAIRO, Oct. 21.—It is reported tonight that Island No. 10 was attacked and captured by the rebels. We have not been able, however, to trace this report to any reliable source.

The steamer from Commerce, Mo., reports all quiet there. The rebels sacked the town, carrying off three thousand dollars worth of goods and a number of horses.

On Saturday morning the steamer Catonhala was fired into by rebels 30 miles below Memphis. They wounded one man. The same evening the steamer Gladiator was attacked by a band of rebels while loading cotton, 25 miles below Memphis, and two persons were killed and seven wounded. They then fired the boat, but the flames were extinguished without doing much damage. The boat escaped.

The rebels continue to burn cotton in the vicinity of Memphis. It is said that Price has been reinforced recently by 15,000 Texans, and that more are arriving daily.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—Helena, Ark., advices to the 17th have been received at headquarters. Everything was comparatively quiet. The defensive works around Helena were nearly completed.

In a skirmish on the 11th, 12 miles west of Helena, the Federals captured 13 men of the 21st Texas Regiment, including a Lieutenant Colonel. Their other loss is unknown. The Federal loss was four killed, six wounded and fourteen missing.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 21.—Gen. Jeff. C. Davis, who killed Gen. Nelson, has been released from arrest and ordered to report at Cincinnati for duty.

Several paroled prisoners from Cox creek arrived here this afternoon.

John Morgan has destroyed all the captured provisions that he could not carry away.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A special dispatch from Cincinnati says:

It is quite certain that Bragg has eluded Buell, and with all his forces safely passed through the gaps of the Cumberland Mountains into Tennessee. Buell is said to be moving in such a direction as to be able to support our forces at Nashville and aid operations in the vicinity of Corinth.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Official returns from 70 counties, comprising more than half of the voting population of the State, give the Democratic candidate for State Auditor 1,860 maj.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 22.—After destroying a wagon train on Cox's creek on Sunday, John Morgan collected his forces, 1,500 strong, and passed down in the direction of Elizabethtown, crossing the Lebanon branch road, at Boston, on Monday afternoon. He arrived at Elizabethtown the same night, at which place he destroyed the railroad bridge over Valley creek. He also announced his determination to go at once to Munfordsville.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 21.—A band of rebels, 200 in number, were discovered on Monday, 7 miles southeast of Marshfield, endeavoring to make their way to West Plains, Ark. They were attacked by a detachment of the Tenth Illinois Cavalry and completely routed, with a loss of 4 killed, 9 wounded and 15 captured. Our loss was one killed. The scattered enemy were pursued by our forces. The result is not known.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The Express says there are rumors in Wall street this afternoon that at a Cabinet meeting held yesterday it was unanimously resolved to remove McClellan, and that Gen. Hooker should succeed him. The above is given for what it is worth.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Orders have been issued directing the occupancy for Government purposes of the property in Washington of persons known to be in the service of rebels.

The Potomac flotilla has lately been doing an extensive business in capturing contraband goods and men in rebel service. To-day, a party were brought to the Navy Yard who were captured while attempting to cross from Virginia to visit their homes in Maryland. Rebel army passes and many letters, were found upon their persons.

There does not seem to be any apparent reason entitling to serious consideration the rumors afloat in New York this afternoon, that Gen. McClellan has been superseded in the command of the Army of the Potomac.

Knight's Landing News.

GRAPE GROWER'S MAXIMS.—A writer in the New Jersey Herald gives the following:

1. Prepare ground in the fall, plant in the spring.
  2. Give the vine plenty of manure, old and well decomposed; for fresh manure excites growth, but does not mature it.
  3. Luxuriant growth does not always insure fruit.
  4. Dig deep but plant shallow.
  5. Young vines produce beautiful fruit, but old vines produce the richest.
  6. Prune in the autumn to promote growth but in the spring to insure fruitfulness.
  7. Plant your vines before you put up trellises.
  8. Vines, like soldiers, should have good arms.
  9. Prune spurs to one well developed bud, for the nearer the old wood the higher flavored the fruit.
  10. Those who prune long must soon climb.
  11. Vine leaves love the sun; the fruit the shade.
  12. Every leaf has a bud at its base, and either a bunch of fruit or a tendril opposite it.
  13. A tendril is an abortive fruit bunch—a bunch of fruit a productive tendril.
  14. A bunch of grapes without a healthy leaf opposite, is like a ship at sea without a rudder—it can't come to port.
  15. Laterals are like some politicians—if not checked they are the worst of thieves.
  16. Good grapes are like thieves—no one has enough.
  17. The earliest grape will keep the longest; for that which is fully matured is easily preserved.
  18. Grape eaters are long livers.
  19. He who buys the new and untried varieties should remember the seller's maxim is cauere emptor—let the buyer look out for himself.
- The man is to be envied who can eat pork chop for supper and sleep without a grunt.

WHEN is a window like a star? When it's a sky light.

A PRACTICAL joker never keeps his friends—he sells them.

WHY is a kiss like a rumor? Because it goes from mouth to mouth.

WHY is a windy orator like a Whale? Because he often rises to spout.

Thrashing Machines.

Also, the following

Reapers and Mowers,

Improved for the harvest of 1862:

Burt's Eagle Combined Machine; New York do.; McCormick's do.; Heath's Eagle do.; Kentucky Harvesting Machine; Haines' (Illinois) do.; Ball's Ohio Reaper and Mower; Manny's Improved Machine.

Esterly's Improved Machine; Rugg's Com-bined machine; Vermont mowing ma-chine; Buckeye do.; Bay State do.; Molly Stark (Ohio) Mower.

And sole agents for the celebrated Nourse, Mason & Co's

Ketchum's Improved Mowers.

With or without Reaper attachments—the best mowing machine in use. They will be furnished this season at greatly reduced prices, bringing them within the reach of every farmer. These machines are very much im-proved, and never fail in the matted or lodged clover—cutting with equal ease the tall or tangled grass without clogging or breaking; and so close that it will save from one to five dollars' worth of hay per acre more than any other machine. They are furnished with Reaper Attachment, at small cost—making them a good and serviceable combined ma-chine; and when all other machines have failed in the tangled grain, the work has been done by the Ketchum machine to the perfect satisfaction of all. The one horse machine cuts four feet; the light two-horse machine cuts four and a half and five feet—two sizes; the heavy two-horse machine cuts five and five and a half feet, two sizes. Any boy ca-pable of driving the team can manage the machine; it is not liable to get out of order.

The New Bay State two-wheeled Mower.—We have purchased the patent right to the New Bay State Mower for the State of California. It is one of the many machines lately invent-ed, and stands far ahead of all others in point of excellence as a two-wheeled mowing ma-chine, having all the new improvements that have been fairly tested. It is very light, strong, durable machine, and cuts full four and a half feet.

The Vermont Mower—Also, a two-wheeled machine. It is made mostly of iron, simple in construction, and can be managed with ease.

The Buckeye Machine has two driving wheels like the Vermont machine, and is simple in its construction.

The Molly Stark Mower, (manufactured at Canton, Ohio), is a very light mower, of the Buckeye pattern.

Ball's Ohio Harvester, (manufactured at Canton, Ohio), is a two-wheeled Reaper and Mower. Has two cutter bars—one for reaping and one for mowing. We have imported a few for trial this season.

The Kentucky Harvester cuts about five and a half feet. Said to be a very good machine. McCormick's Reaper and Mower—a very good reaper—intended for four large horses.

Burt's Eagle Reaper and Mower, (Improved for 1862.) Baker & Hamilton, sole agents for this machine in California and Oregon.

We have imported these machines for the past two years, which were furnished to some of our neighboring farmers and thoroughly tested. They gave general satisfaction both in cutting grain and grass. The style is very much the same as the celebrated Esterly's machine, except that they are better made; have a strong iron finger bar; are hand-rak-ing reapers and have no side draft. They have a large four foot driving wheel. The outside grain wheel is thirty inches in diam-eter. The driver's seat is over two iron truck wheels, each thirty inches in diameter, and the machine may be turned round without crowding the horses, as there is no weight upon their necks. They have two sets of gearing for fast and slow motion; a smooth knife for mowing, and a sickle for reaping; the back of each is made of hammered cast steel. They cut about six and a half feet, and can be worked with two light horses. We have but a few for this season's trade, owing to the fact that the great demand at the factory made it impossible for the manufacturer to fill our orders for a large number in season for shipment to this market.

Rugg's Reaper and Mower, cutting six and nine feet. This machine cuts in advance of the horses, and the cutter can be raised by the driver from one to twenty-four inches. Sold very cheap.

Haine's Illinois Harvester, or Header, cuts ten feet. Improved for the harvest of 1862. We have also imported complete sets of trucks, or running gear for header-wagons, with neck yokes and whiffletrees complete.

P. Manny's Improved Combined Reaper and Mower.—This is a new style of machine, very light, yet strongly built, lately patented by P. Manny, in which there are many valuable improvements. We are willing to guarantee this Combined Reaper and Mower in every instance.

We have imported a large stock of extras for repairing Reapers, Mowers and Thrashers, all of which will be sold cheap for cash.

—ALSO—

Haying and Harvesting Tools

Of every description necessary to meet the wants of the farmers. These they have in large quantities, and can supply to traders wholesale and retail, at San Francisco prices.

All kinds of Farming Implements, Hardware and Seeds.

We are determined not to be undersold by any other house in the State; and invite cus-tomers to call and examine for themselves at our
